Holy Cross: We're A School Come Of Age Mature Enough To Be Proud Of Ourselves

Holy Cross is beginning to leave its mark. The entire school, academically, in athletics, and the clubs and organizations are beginning to notice that no longer are we "that school out in River Grove somewhere." We have matured and expanded, both physically and mentally. This is the basic idea and theme that we are trying to convey to you through the course of the book. Take for instance the athletic teams: this year the Freshmen football team was undefeated, the Basketball team won its first games in the state tournament, and the Track and Baseball teams won the S.C.C. Championship. Physically the school has budded out in the form of the Humanities wing. Many clubs have come into existence this year and some clubs have made the move to being co-ed with Mother Guerin. As you can see, what we are trying to show you is the coming of age of our school through its expansion, and continued expansion will bring continued maturation, and who could ask more of a school?

"Our Administration: Well Respected"

At many schools the words "the Administration" strike fear and confusion into the hearts of the student. In some schools "the Administration" has turned into a mysterious "big brother" who watches your every move. Holy Cross is quite the opposite. The principal, Brother Walter Davenport, is a well-known figure to the students. The Administration and a competent staff keep Holy Cross moving along each day as well as it does.

HC's Emphasis On Math Pays Off For Student

Holy Cross has always placed a high emphasis on mathematics education, and the results of many tests have shown this pays off. A student can take up to four years of math at Holy Cross, starting with algebra, working his way through geometry and trigonometry, and completing studies with senior math. All the while he is using this education in a specific science course he is taking. Or, if he wishes, a student can take only one year of math and get a first-rate background in math. Whatever a student does, he can be sure that the Holy Cross mathematics teaching staff will give him a fine education in one of today's most important fields.

Diversified Sciences Provide Background

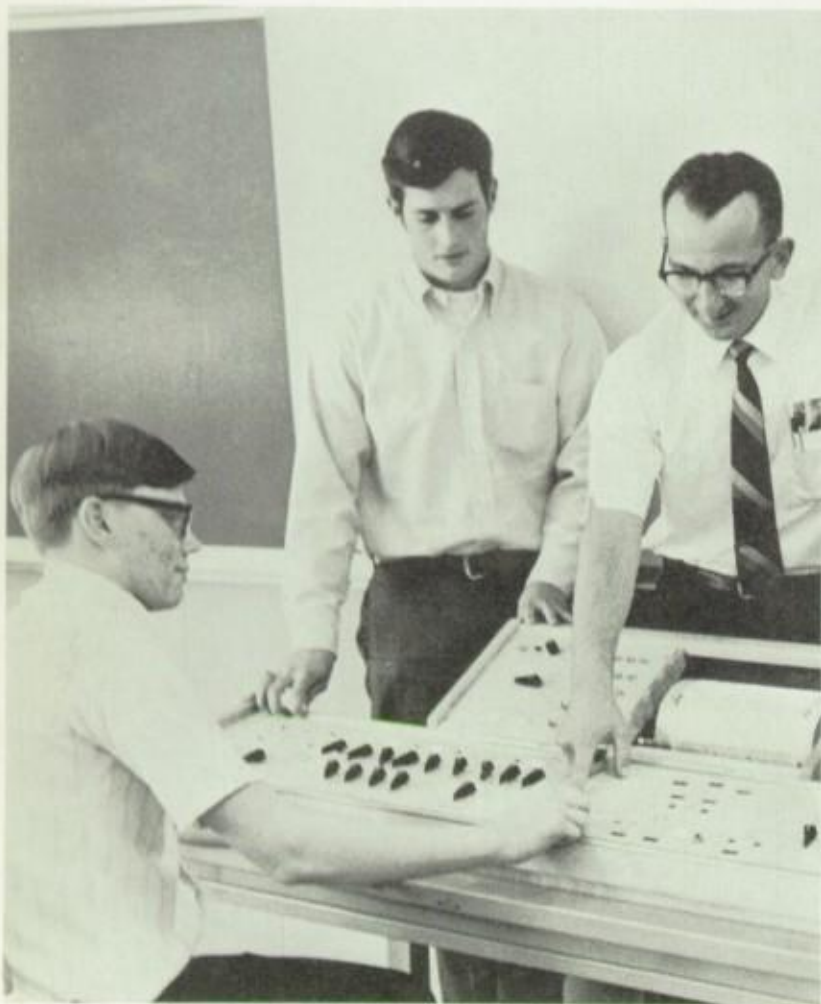

This year has seen many changes in our science program as it has been maturing to meet the needs of our rapidly advancing technological world. With the building of the new humanities wing, more available space has been utilized for a new science lab used by students of I.P.S. Now this course is a required subject for all Freshmen. However, this course is very popular with all classes, Seniors included. On the following level, Sophomores take the more complex biology, dealing with the how's, where's, and why's of life on this planet. The Juniors take chemistry in preparation for the advanced courses encountered later in college. On the Senior level students may take physics or other courses offered by the department. In the year of the heralded moon landing, Holy Cross has also taken a giant leap toward the advancement of science by educating its men in everything from physical science to honors physics. The strong emphasis placed on the "scientific sense" within this field truly contributes to the well-educated student.

Computer Helps To Add Realism

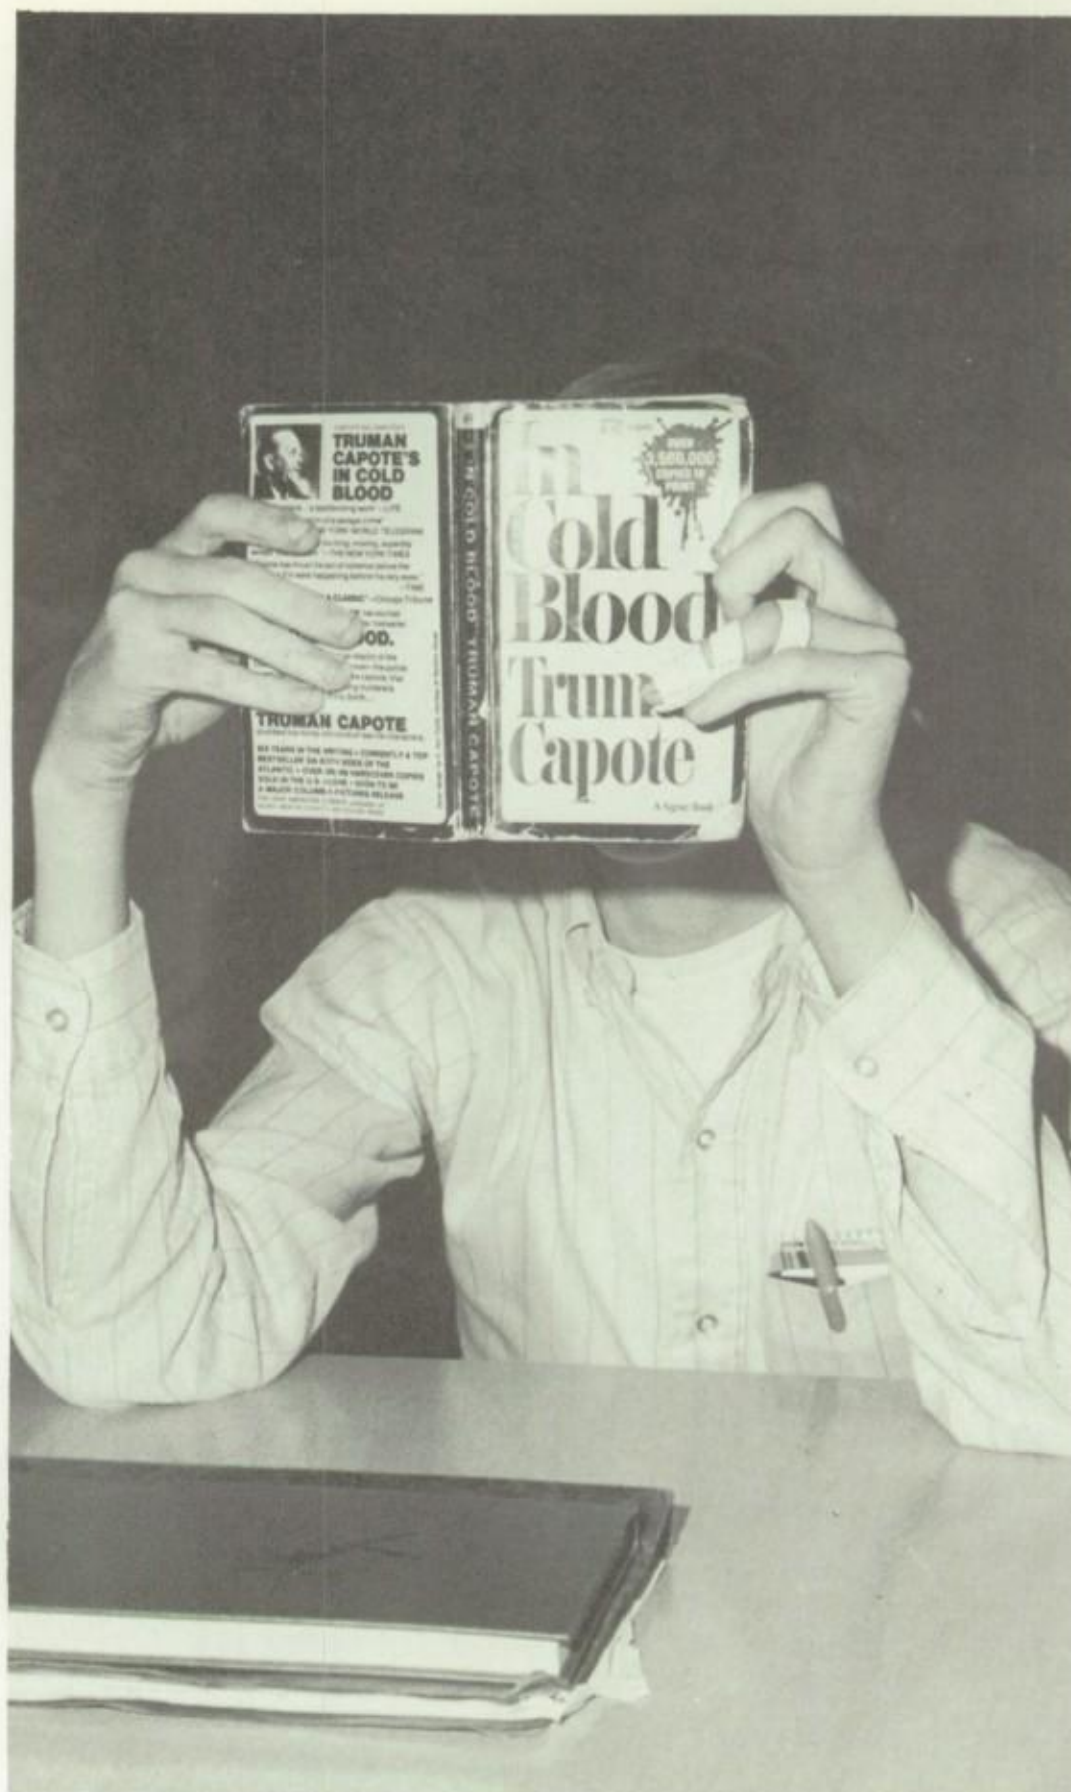

To prepare students for the competition in the business world, a complete business course is offered. In bookkeeping class, students can gain practical experience by "keeping the books" for an imaginary company. Business principles and management teaches the basics of running a business in the most profitable sense. Many of the legal aspects of business are studied in the fundamentals of business law. The business department, however, although offering its usual courses, expanded this year in the form of an awesome computer. The small-scale computer was obtained and is now being put to practical use in computer science, a course offered for the first time this year. This particular innovation in the classroom has definitely given the student of business insights into his life ahead.

English Objective: Self-Expression

The main goal of the English department this year was to let the student express himself through the creative process. It was the year of the filmstrip, the project, the recorder, the photograph, the phonograph. With these materials the English department is continually expanding to meet the needs of the individual student. Debate was added to the curriculum and was instrumental in preparing the school team for its competition. A significant innovation saw teacher evaluators sent from Northwestern University to visit the English classes of each level. Perhaps the most vital characteristic of the department is the desire to consider the needs of the student body in order to fulfill these needs as projected by the present into the future.

Languages Rely On Lab Studying

One important thing to all students on the road to college is the language department. Most students must successfully make their way through two, three, perhaps even four years of either Spanish, French, or Latin. The language department at Holy Cross is devoted to make these years as beneficial as possible. The elusive purpose sought after this year by the department was to coordinate the teaching efforts toward developing language skills at all four levels.

Social Studies Add New Curriculum

An old saying contends: "You learn from your mistakes!" But we would be in a sad state indeed if every person had to make his own mistakes in order to learn anything. Fortunately, there is an alternative. We can find out about the successes and failures made by others. The society in which we live is obviously complex. Something which can help us live in this community and get along better with one another is necessary. That is the concept behind social science. The areas covered by social science are almost unlimited. Fields that can be studied include economics, sociology, psychology, and history. This year a new course, anthropology, was added to the curriculum, and students likened to it immediately. How important to the high school student are these varied courses? The answer depends totally on how much the student wants to understand his society.

Humanities Wing Opens Its Doors

A new addition to the old, improvements in teaching, and a growth in the understanding of the individual summarize the flowing change that our humanities program is undergoing. It is maturing into a successful addition to the school curriculum by sensitizing the student to his relationships with other people. Although the program represents a radical change from the religion classes of yesteryear, both the students and the faculty are responding enthusiastically to its goal of building socially experienced individuals. Films, discussion, articles, and group projects along with field days to various instrumental places combine with the slight influences of psychology and sociology to achieve this end.

Physical Education's Program Puts Break In Student's Day

It's cold man. There's dew on your shoes. You're just standing there, and it's cold. It's early in the morning, you're in a shirt and shorts, in the ranks, in the cold. Then, with a sound as startling as the air a whistle sounds, and you don't think of the cold anymore, because Phys. Ed. has started. Not everyone has morning Physical Education, but everyone has experienced the particular feelings that go with this class. Whether it's the gym floor on your back or the mud on the soccer field, these impressions are part of school you never forget. The question of "Got fized today?" pops up quite often, for it's a welcome break in the school day. Enthusiasm drops when sweat drips and stomachs ache, but it's still one of the most popular classes.

Art Comes Alive; Electives Draw Many

Expansion is quite obvious in the electives department. The growth of the course in art is appreciated by many students. This course, which previously has had a few students, flowered this year under the expansion of a classroom into a room specifically delegated to art. The history of art has been a vital part of the course. Under the direction of Brother Harold Ruplinger, an active Art Club lives with creativity. The journalism course was taught this year in the Publications Office, thus giving students a better perspective of the field. Drafting, a balanced combination of art and geometry, tested the student's precision. To be considered equally as important, the exactness of vocal and instrumental music existing in the talent of students found expression in both chorus and band.

N.H.S., Lettermen, Key Club Showcase Service To School

The Lettermen in the school year 1969-70 again functioned as an honorary organization for those athletes who have earned, through their activities in athletics, a position of honor among the students of the school. This year, the club sponsored two "Stars-Coaches" games: the Mets and White Sox-Coaches game and the annual Cub-Coaches game. In its second year of operation, the Key Club has spread its wings under the direction of Brother Charles McBride. This honorary organization took part in many activities of its parent club, the Mont Clare Kiwanis, such as Peanut Day. It also initiated activities of its own, like the famed car washes and "Slave Day." The National Honor Society, is an honorary organization for students who have exemplified qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. The NHS assigns private tutors to any student who requests help in any given subject area.

Student Council Sights On Unity

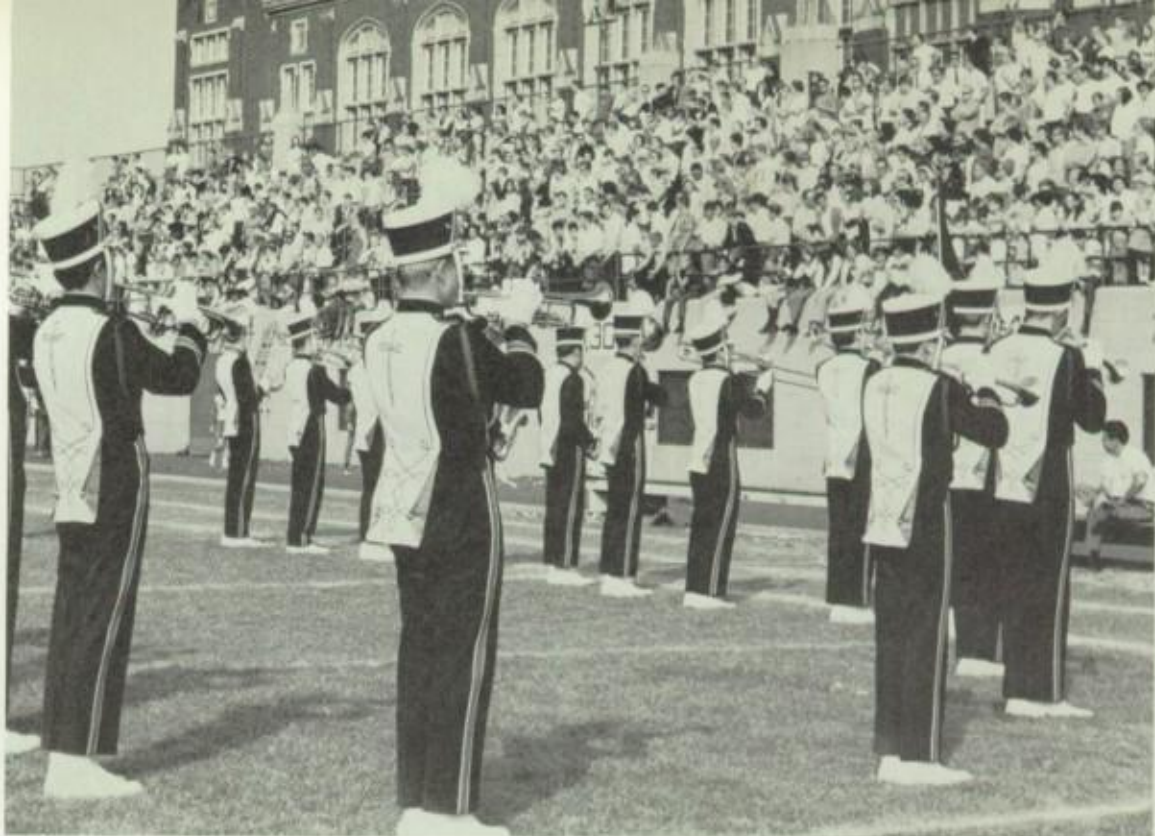

The Student Council of this past year really showed its coming of age as it took on the biggest financial burden ever undertaken by this body of student leaders, as they paid for the air-conditioning of the school library. In addition, the Council had a new look with their new moderator, Brother James Rottenbucher, and the iron hand of President Joe Palumbo. Joe, with his hard-working executive council, went all out to provide an excellent social calendar for the student body. Besides drawing some of the bigger crowds at the sock hops, the Council put on the best Homecoming in Holy Cross history. With the aid of the Junior and Senior classes, the Homecoming Semi-Formal became a sellout and the bonfire and rally became a spirited assembly of students.

HC's Band Pleases Fan And Audience

The Holy Cross High School Band is really many bands. It is a swing band, a marching band, a football band, and a concert band. It is to the credit of both the members and Brother James Rottenbucher, their director, that they are able to switch roles with such success. Even though Brother James was kept busy by other activities, neither his work with the band nor the excellence of the members lagged even for a moment. On all levels, the band showed a great deal of raw talent which was shaped and molded into producing even better musical achievements. The music which serenaded us during the first two modules during the fall was shared with many other schools when the band played for a ball game, and with most of Chicago when the band marched down State Street, and with anyone who bought a ticket for the concert. Everyone will agree that the Holy Cross High School Band is one of the most talented groups in the school.

Chorus Talent Buds; Quartet Makes Debut

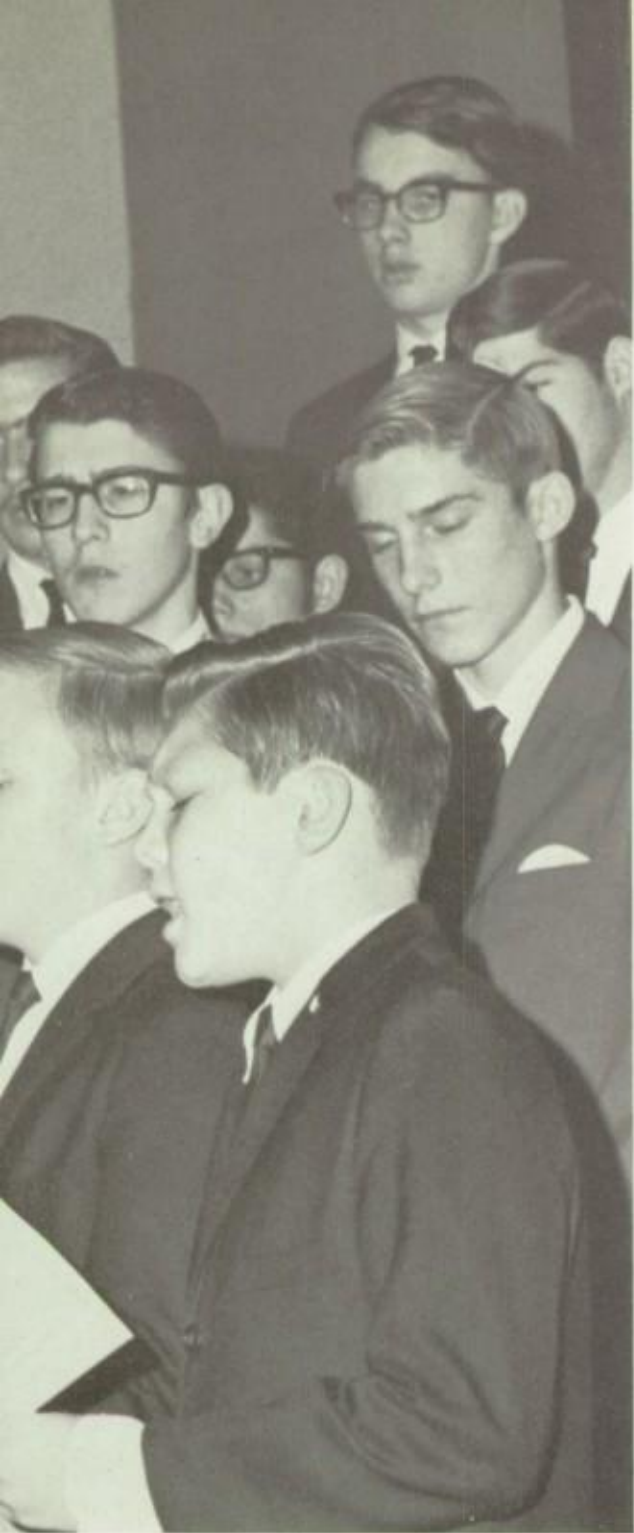

This year's Chorus had a new look too, with a new moderator, Mr. John Leone, a graduate of Holy Cross. The group was only forty-nine strong, but this was to their advantage as they could better perfect their quality with a smaller group. The Glee Club is well-rounded with quite a few experienced Seniors and some talented underclassmen. The Chorus put on a fine show at the Christmas and Spring concerts and made a good showing at the state contest. The songs that they sing range from popular "Windy" and "Love is Blue" to the classical "Man of LaMancha." Mr. Leone has innovated many new things in this year's Chorus. Some of these include before and after school tutoring, student officers, sectionals every morning, and construction of quartets. The administration has acknowledged the Chorus by making it a full credit course in the curriculum. This has made it a little harder on the students, but they gladly accept it as they work for bigger and better things.

Language Clubs Give Cultural Background

The students participating in the various language clubs share their experiences in the classroom, generating interest in other cultures. Each of the clubs is helping its members to learn more about its particular language and culture. Over the summer members of the French Club traveled through Europe and visited Italy, Switzerland, Germany, France, Belgium, and England. During Christmas vacation some Crusaders relaxed in the sun and fun of Mexico, experiencing Mexican culture to the fullest. The Latin Club concentrates on the Golden Age of Rome. Through their interest in Latin, club members have learned more about English by emphasizing the vital relationships between the two languages. Common purposes and ideals unite these three language clubs.

Natural Science Clubs Use Life For Teacher

One of the lesser known organizations of Holy Cross, the Science Club, is developing strongly. Members of the club work on their projects, ranging from weather analysis to studies of sub-atomic particles, year round in preparation for the Spring Science Fair. Holy Cross has continually won first places and qualified for state competition. The Conservation Club has been busy with a wide scope of activities this year. The club took part in many field trips with their moderator, Mr. Byrne. The purpose of these trips was to trap and band hawks, stock lakes with fish and other ideas which were helpful to wildlife. Another function of the club is to observe through its annual trip to Kentucky over Easter vacation and to the hinterlands of Canada's Quetico National Park. In the meantime, the Archeology Club was conducting archeological digs and fossil studies. Under the watchful eyes of Mr. Goddard, the club explored mankind's history.

Holy Cross Speakers Take Home Awards

Although both debate and forensics are under the direction of Brother Charles Smith and both form only one chapter of the National Forensics League, debate and forensics function as two separate organizations. Each has its own members, its own coaches, its own tournaments, and its own excellent record. The debaters were coached this year by Michael Stachura, a former Holy Cross student and now a senior at DePaul University. Participating in twelve tournaments during the year, debaters on all three levels (novice, junior varsity, and varsity) brought home trophies. Forensics was coached this year by Brother Peter Nault. Although forensics has neither as many tournaments nor as many members as debate, forensics members still managed to credit the school with many awards and trophies. When the achievements of forensics are coupled with those of debate, Holy Cross's fame for surviving strong competition becomes well known throughout the area.

Drama Club Puts On "Romanoff And Juliet"

The Drama Club's spring performance of Romanoff and Juliet was an overwhelming success. The majority of the cast had previous stage experience, which all helped to produce excellent performances. A student-directed, three act comedy, Romanoff and Juliet was an amusing satire of Russian and American customs and philosophies. The quaint European setting was one from which the best of humor and irony could flow. After the completion of Romanoff and Juliet, the Drama Club could look forward to their 1970 presentation of Stalag Seventeen, a dramatic war story would be entered in state competition. Undoubtedly, the long hours were well worth the satisfaction and the acclaim which the actors and club members received. It could well be said that this year's club has established a commendable tradition.

Mother Guerin, HC Combine For Chess, Business, Tutoring

Business, Chess, and CALM are a couple of the less recognized, less known clubs at Holy Cross that are really coming around. Business, only in its first year, has made some real strides. Along with Chess and CALM, the Business Club has gone co-ed with Guerin. Their main purpose is to gain some practical experience in the business world. The Chess Club, called as well the "Chess Knights," are an active little group that participates in competitive tournaments with other chess buffs from nearby schools. With their new moderator, Brother Louis Mangini, they sponsored their own tournaments whereby the final winner received a trophy. CALM, in its sixth year at Holy Cross, is still as active as ever. Father Angelo Moscato, the moderator, along with Mrs. Delaney of Guerin, head a devoted group of Crusaders and Guerinites in their admirable work of tutoring children in math, spelling, reading, and English at St. Francis Borgia, a neighboring parish.

Library And Service Clubs Continue To Give Unselfish Help

The Library Club was revived this year and was well-taken by the students. Thirteen members worked this year under the direction of Brother Bede Stadler on buying, cataloguing, and taking care of the books in the best high school library in the area. The club must be complimented for doing a difficult job well. No organization is involved in more school functions during the year than the Service Club. These twenty-five members are the ones who see to the thousand-and-one things, major and minor, that must be done if a particular program is to be a success. Their labor is even greater since their only payment is our thanks.

New Clubs Grow From New Interests

For the student interested in HAM radios, Holy Cross now has a Radio Club. The members of the club are basically interested in obtaining their own Federal Communications Commission licenses. The club moderator, Brother Eric Landers, teaches the members the international code and explains the theory of electricity as applied to radio transmitters and receivers. The members must have a basic understanding of these principles to pass their FCC written license test. Members operate a HAM radio station which enables them to speak to amateur radio operators all over the world. The Math Club, headed by Father Vincent Gennardo, aims at helping its members acquire quicker and easier methods for solving mathematical problems. Problems solved during club meetings make the daily math classes easier for the student.

'Spirit Speaks' Through VL And The Art Club

Two newcomers to the club roster at Holy Cross were the Art Club and "Victory Club." Both organizations, handled by Brother Harold Ruplinger, had as a goal the strengthening of school spirit. "Victory Lane" was founded at the basketball season's start in 1968 by five Juniors on the theory that by informing students about our teams would interest them in attending the games. No marked increase of game attendance resulted, but what did result was a semi-weekly mimeographed sheet about the teams, containing the most biased pro-Holy Cross propaganda ever written. The Art Club moved in subtler ways, by making art students talented in techniques of practical art expression available for various school projects throughout the year.

Crusader And Templar Muddle Through (Almost)

The school newspaper, The Crusader, again came through another year of informing, entertaining and helping the student. The editorship shared by seniors Chip Colletti and George Ristau brought about absolute pandemonium on deadline days, but by Sunday night everything managed to get done on time. This year saw the coming of a new moderator, Brother John McMuldren, and a group of typists from Mother Guerin, who were an indispensable part of the publication. The 1970 Templar editors, Don Meersman and John Cannon, with moderator Brother Frederick Schultz, somehow amid the dark and misty inner reaches of the newly-acquired Templar office, managed as well to produce a yearbook. Faculty members and students who happened into the office never ceased to be amazed at the incoherence of the editors, the staff members, and the clutter of the office.

Football's Code: Run Fast And Hit Hard

The 1969 varsity football season was the most successful in Crusader history. The highlight of the Crusader campaign was their 20-12 homecoming victory over St. Francis of Wheaton. The 1969 season was started with a 27-8 defeat of St. Joseph, but was followed by a 28-6 loss at the hands of St. Patrick. Holy Cross came back to beat Montini 26-6 and St. Francis, last year's conference champs, 20-12. This big game was followed by two more Cross victories, St. Edward's, 33-13, and the shutting-out of Carmel, 15-0. On October 31, Holy Cross traveled to Notre Dame to play in the Dons' homecoming game. The Dons rose to the occasion and defeated the Crusaders, 29-14. The final game of the season against Marian Central was won by Cross, 25-6, and capped a 6-1 conference record which gave Holy Cross a second place tie with Marmion in the SCC. Overall the Crusaders compiled a 7-2 record and placed 8 team members on the all-conference team.

Desire And Guts Make Sophs Go

The Sophomore Crusaders tried to improve upon their 7-1 Freshman record. Their outstanding defense, coached by Mr. Byrne, refused to concede yardage to their opponents. While the defense prevented the opposition from scoring, the offense, headed by Coach Ostrowski, proceeded to roll up big yardage and tack-up points. After an opening victory against St. Joseph, 14-8, the young Crusaders showed their offensive and defensive power in victories over St. Patrick, 12-0, Montini, 28-0, St. Francis, 36-0, St. Edward's, 38-0, and in the final game of the season against Marian Central, 42-6. The Sophs compiled an 8-1 overall record, their lone defeat coming at the hands of Notre Dame, 40-6. The Crusaders finished second to Notre Dame in the SCC. The team's aggressiveness has convinced many fans that it is the team to watch for continuing our powerful tradition.

Frosh Have 10-0 Season; First Undefeated Team!

The Freshman football team this year accomplished what no other team in Holy Cross history has ever done before. They ran, passed and fought their way to an unmarred season: a 10 and 0 record. There were times during the season when the outlook was doubtful and other times when the team could do no wrong. Defense was the key word to the season as the rock hard Freshmen Crusaders held the opposing teams' point average way down. The Freshman coach, Mr. Donald Halverson, inspired his team to the heights they attained this year. Mr. Halverson just has that something about him that makes the team work and work hard. The team proved to its coach and to the school that this kind of coaching pays off. The teams of Holy Cross are now established even on the Freshman level of competition and are no longer considered best but true leaders.

Varsity Finishes Second In The SCC

1969 was our cross country team's best year ever, not because it was better than any previous record, but because it was a truly impressive 16-2-1 season. One reason for the success was Coach Ray Soucek, who took a big personal interest in his runners and provided the scolding and inspiration needed in this lonely, painful sport. The team's success was soundly based on the consistently excellent running of the top three men, senior Hank Vera and juniors Mike Durkin and Frank Gramarosso. These three always finished in the top numbers, usually taking first, second and third places in dual meets. Besides doing well in dual contests, the team did well in the big meets. These were the St. Ignatius Invitational, the SCC Tournament, the Riverside-Brookfield Invitational and the Ridgewood District meets. The team took second in the first two, and fifth in the others. Our Frosh-Soph team suffered from inexperience and therefore had a poor season.

Cagers Take Third; Have 19-9 Season

The 1969-1970 varsity basketball team became the winningest team in Holy Cross history, as it compiled an overall record of 19-9. The Crusaders also won the first games in regional play in the school's history as they defeated Walther Lutheran 59-42 and upset East Leyden 67-58 in overtime. These fine records were provided by the whole new look in the basketball program under new coaches, Al Ostrowski and John Thanos. These two men brought the desire to win with them in their first year at Holy Cross and put hustle and desire into every ball player's vocabulary. The varsity finished third in the S.C.C. with a 10-4 record behind two strong teams in Marmion and Notre Dame. Rick Sievers won the conference scoring crown hitting for 320 points, following last year's scoring leader Ernie Losch. Sievers broke the Holy Cross individual scoring record by burning the nets with 44 points against Marian Central. Sievers was named all-conference, while Ken Larsen made honorable mention.

Freshmen Take S.C.C.; Sophs Tie for 4th

Like the varsity the Freshmen and Sophomores had a whole new look with first year coaches, Donald Storino and Victor Capron. In their first year they both put on fine showings. Although hampered by the loss of some good ball players to the varsity, Coach Storino took a losing frosh club and put it in fourth in the S.C.C. with a 7-7 record. The Sophs showed there really isn't a "green machine" as they beat Notre Dame in over time. The Frosh this year were the talk of the town as they came through with a 16-2 record. The team proudly captured the S.C.C. championship. They also handily took care of the mighty Dons as they trounced them twice. Coach Capron worked well with his talent, producing a powerful offensive ball club. Future varsity teams will fare well with this talent.

Varsity Wrestlers 10-4; Morocco to Sectional

The 1969-1970 Holy Cross varsity wrestling team won four of its first five dual meets and proceeded to have its best season in three years. Much of the success is due to Coach Rio's demanding training program and the stiff competition of challenge matches prior to each meet. This year's wrestling squad was balanced with six Juniors and six Seniors, although most of the strength was in the middle weight groups. Peter Morocco was the most consistent performer, going undefeated in regular season competition. It was the pride and determination of each wrestler that contributed to the season's successes. There is certainly more to be said about the wrestlers than their ten and four record. Working throughout the entire season as a unified team surely developed a unique spirit among the members of the varsity squad. Varsity wrestlers are only one example of Holy Cross' spirit and drive.

Frosh, Sophs 8-5

The Holy Cross wrestling team, through the hard work and determination of its members and coaches, has earned the respect of its opponents. The sport itself has been acquiring increasing fan support at the home meets. The quality of competition displayed by the varsity is also present at the Frosh/Soph level. The Frosh-Sophs compiled a fine record which included impressive victories over Luther North, Quigley South, St. Joseph, St. Francis, and Walther Lutheran. Their overall record was 8-5. This year's Frosh-Sophs can be counted on to contribute strongly to next year's varsity. With the spirit and pride that the team showed this year, it is certain that they will give Holy Cross fine wrestling teams in the years ahead.

Intramurals Meet With Much Enthusiasm

Football, basketball, floor hockey, volleyball, baseball? You can participate in any or all by joining the Holy Cross intramural program. The program aims at giving everyone the chance to compete in the sports they enjoy and to instill in them a sense of good sportsmanship. The participants get an opportunity to oppose and defeat their fellow classmates. Again this year, participation has been very strong. All four classes were capably represented in each sport. The team races have been close in every sport, volleyball being the perennial exception. Perhaps the most popular of the intramural sports is floor hockey. The stands are usually filled with interested observers for every hockey battle. Intramurals remain to hold an important position on the daily schedule.

Cheerleaders: A Group With Real Love For H.C.

Anyone for the "glamorous" job of a cheerleader? You get to stand in front of hundreds of strangers, wave your arms till they hurt, shout at the top of your voice, do gymnastics in a hot, bulky sweater, look optimistic when you're tired and you're losing, and you have to practice doing it. Some glamor. But despite all the work, our cheerleading squads always managed to look like they were enjoying it. That's because they were. They genuinely liked the school they were cheering for. Preparing for and cheering at big events weren't the only thing. They also cared for little details. Things like hanging around after bad games to cheer people up, and driving as far as Lisle, Illinois, to cheer at Cross Country meets. All the hard work done didn't show, except in the final product. This year's co/captains, Terry Scott and Dianne Gioviano, used their talent and experience to lead by example when we were winning, and when enthusiasm ran thin. The enthusiasm and real concern for Holy Cross shown by the Varsity and Junior Varsity squads will be hard to match.

Managers And Trainers Serve School Athletes

"Dedication and service" is the motto of the managers and trainers at Holy Cross. For the trainers, this year round season starts early with a twelve week summer course in first aid taught by Mr. Byrne. Then comes the football season, which keeps the trainers busy taping and giving whirlpool treatments. In the meantime, the managers are hard at work with Mr. Jakubczak by keeping the equipment in good repair. Once the football season is over, the hectic pace slows down, but there are still winter and spring sports to keep both trainers and managers occupied with the important but unnoticed jobs performed behind each event.

HC Finishes As S.C.C. Champions

A conference championship was the climax of the 1969 track season. Excellent individual performances in every division resulted in a balanced team. Jack Degrenier, Thomas Sullivan, and Guy DeBoo were outstanding in field events. Robert Rubinelli was a valuable jumper and hurdler, and James Riggle was an equally fine sprinter. In middle and long distance running Hank Vera and Mike Durkin were consistent first place finishers. Our mile relay team of Gene Bellezo, Mike Collins, Anthony Lombardo, and Hank Vera placed first, along with the half mile relay team of James Riggle, Paul Ebelhach, Fabio Demenic, and Mike Collins. Individual determination and seriousness of purpose by team members combined with dedicated coaching at the season's end to make Holy Cross the S.C.C. champions.

Varsity Baseball Takes Conference

Baseball at Holy Cross, for some unexplainable reason, has always been one of the most popular sports. The Crusaders are definitely on the powers in the Suburban Catholic Conference, this year taking first place in the league.

The Varsity Crusaders closed out the 1969 season with a fourteen and two record in the SCC. On the season, their record was twenty-one and four. Highlights of the season were many, including the no-hit game posted by John Benedetti against the "arch-rival" Notre Dame, and the announcement of the Holy Cross All-Star Team. Crusaders chosen for the team were John Benedetti as pitcher, Frank Mariani, Jr., as catcher, right fielder Pete Masciopinto, who also doubled as relief pitcher, and Rick Sievers as shortstop.

The Freshman and Sophomore teams finished the season with records of thirteen and one and fourteen and two, respectively, making a winning baseball season all around, and keeping with the tradition of the Holy Cross Crusaders.

Freshmen Find Out Facts Of Life At HC

When the first man walked the earth, there must have been someone who was placed at the bottom of the social ladder, someone who was scorned, pitied, and ignored. He was placed in the undesirable position of being forced to respect everyone. This was not his fault. He had done nothing wrong. It was just that he was the newest member of the community and ignorant of the group's many customs and traditions. Today we have the same person, but today we call him a freshman. But now, the freshman knows that soon he will be considered an important member of the community that is Holy Cross. Now he will be able to grow with that community, getting as much out of it as he puts in. The freshman's position may be low, but it has unlimited potential.

Sophomores Contribute To HC's Student Life

The word "Sophomore" is made up of two Greek words: sophos, meaning "wise" or "knowledgeable," and mos, meaning "foolish." The literal meaning of the word Sophomore, therefore, is "wise fool." At first look, this may appear to be a term that contradicts itself. But if you think about it, wise fool pretty well describes the typical sophomore. In school, he is much smarter than any freshman. What's more, both he and the freshman know he deserves respect, even if only he has in truth, really survived a year of high school and returned for more. But still, the sophomore is constantly reminded that he has another two years to survive before he is a privileged senior. The social life of the sophomore improved one hundred percent when he first discovered that it is easy to talk to girls, but there is still that embarrassing crack in his voice when he's nervous. The sophomore knows more about cars than anyone in his family, yet laws say he's too young to drive. Alas, the sophomore's life is a mixture of too much, but not enough.

Rings and Things Helped Make Junior Year Swing

Sometime during his third year of high school, every student looks back at his previous two years, and perhaps feels a twinge of longing for that simpler time. Gone is the convenient goal of just finishing high school. The junior now sets his sights on much loftier targets. Missing are the days of leisure and relaxation. Now, it seems that he must "run ever faster to stay in the same place." Lost forever is the time of carefree existence. Now the junior must accept responsibility in many forms. Even social affairs, which were once pleasant but meaningless events, take on a different mood as the junior himself matures in his feelings and attitudes. The junior year is indeed more difficult and complex than anything a young man has previously lived through. But at the same time there are rewards also - friendships grow stronger, tastes become more acute, feelings and emotions come into perspective. The junior's life is hard, but it is also more meaningful, more lasting, in effect, more rewarding than any previous year.

Acknowledgements

The staff of the '70 TEMPLAR would like to thank all the people who helped in the production of this book: the Leander-Gibson Studio for Senior portraits and special services, the Norman King Co., Inc., and its representative, Mr. Leonard Witts, the printers of TEMPLAR, Brother Frederick Schultz, CSC, moderator, Brother Charles McBride, CSC, Director of Publications, for photographic services, to the faculty and student body of Holy Cross, and all who helped in the production of this book.

Editors Note

In this, the last bit of copy I'll write for the TEMPLAR, I'd like to tell you my personal feelings. First of all there were times this year when I thought the yearbook would never materialize. But many hours after school, during school and before school seem to have paid off. I hope this book is worth to you many more times the sum paid. Although it may seem out of place, I'd like to thank personally Don Meersman who was much more than just the other co-editor, and all the other people, males, and of course, female. I beg you to not just read through this book and just forget about it. Let it become a part of your high school memories, as it has become a part of mine, and I might add, one of the better parts.

John Cannon

Every book is supposed to have a definite conclusion, and this is finally it for TEMPLAR '70. I figured I could voice all my gripes and frustrations in the Editor's Note, but I'm so relieved at having finished that I can't get angry anymore. But besides relief my greatest feeling is one of surprise, because I didn't think it would ever be finished. John Cannon, who was the guy really responsible for getting this thing done, and I tried to tell what really happened at Holy Cross this year. It's kind of an impossible job to tell everything that happened, but we tried anyway. Here's the final product, I hope you like it. I do.

Don Meersman
